ELECTRIC CHAIR DEATH IS SOUGHT FOR C. ARNWINE

To Be Demanded by Commonwealth; Trial Starts Tomorrow

STATE. 14 WITNESSES

Expect Court Room To Be Crowded; "Show" is Warned Against

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 22.—Nothing less than death in the electric chair will be demanded by the Commonwealth in the trial of Charles Arnwine, 25-year-old Newtown foundry worker, who is charged with the cold-blooded murder of pretty 15-year-old Frances Marie Rempfer, Newtown High School sophomore and church organist.

District Attorney Arthur M. Eastburn, in opening his case to the jury after it is selected, will so demand. The case will get under way at 9:30 Thursday morning in Court Room No. 1, with President Judge Hiram H. Keller presiding in the Court of Oyer and Terminer of Bucks county.

The Rempfer girl's murdered body, with a bullet hole through the left breast was found late Saturday afternoon, November 26, in Double Woods, near Newtown, not far from the girl's home. It was found beneath an old mattress, by a posse of citizens and police who had started out to search for the girl after she had been missing from her home for a week.

On November 27, Arnwine, who had been arrested on a statutory charge preferred by the girl's parents, confessed to County Detective Antonio Russo in Doylestown, that he had shot Frances with a 32-caliber revolver on Sunday morning of November 13, about 2:30, in Double Woods, Newtown township. He was formally arraigned on a charge of murder on November 28 and was indicted last December by the grand jury on a charge of murder.

That Arnwine held a weird, Svengali-like power over his Titian-haired victim, against which she was powerless, is the theory that has grown out of the murder of this popular Newtown miss. Arnwine is the father of three children, whose two former wives are estranged.

Police scoff at the suicide pact theory advanced by the rustic Romeo after he was arrested, it being their contention that Arnwine lured Miss Rempfer to the midnight love tryst to silence her forever, for he had been warned by the victim's father, Charles Rempfer, Newtown printer, to keep away from Frances, but continued to exercise a strange fascination for her. Arnwine will be defended by J. Leslie Kiloynce, of Bristol, a former assistant District Attorney of Bucks county, under District Attorney Eastburn, who will prosecute Arnwine.

The Bucks county court room which seats over 500 persons, will more than likely be filled throughout the period of the trial. Judge Keller however, has issued a warning that the dignity of the court will be upheld and that no "sensational show" will be made of the trial.

The Commonwealth has summoned fourteen witnesses, while the defense will have quite a number besides Arnwine. It is not likely that the trial will be completed this week. Commonwealth witnesses will include County Detective Russo, Corporal W. P. Snyder, of Doylestown State Police; Dr. (Continued on Page 3)

Join Cadet Boosters

The sum of $125 has been secured thus far by the Cadet Booster Association in its drive for $1500 to procure new uniforms for members of the Cadet Bugle and Drum Corps, which is sponsored by Robert W. Bracken Post, American Legion.

The uniforms now worn by the Cadets have been in use for the past nine years, and it is stated they will not bear rigid inspection. The Cadets, now state junior bugle corps champions, wish to maintain their high standard, and the Booster Association is backing them to the limit.

Sums received in the various sections up to Saturday include:

Croydon	$10
Edgely	10
Tulitytown	10
Cornwells Heights	5
First Ward, Bristol	15
Second Ward	12
Third Ward	10
Fourth Ward	15
Fifth Ward	20
Sixth Ward	18

Acknowledged today $125. Officers of the association state that 100% of the employees of Wallace & Flum, Prudential Insurance Company and Bristol Tobacco Company have joined the association, and are backing the movement.

COMMITTEE TO MEET

The committee for the Martha Washington supper will meet immediately after the prayer service in Bristol M. E. Church tonight. Solicitors are asked to be ready to make final reports.

Four Sketches Staged At First Baptist Church

Social Circle of First Baptist Church held an apron social and entertainment last evening in the Sunday School room.

A delightful program was arranged including selections by the rhythmic orchestra, composed of Doris Hendricks, Ruth Weik, Thelma Weik, May Vandoren, Helen Allen, Sylvia Howell, Vivian Green, Elizabeth Cook, Elizabeth Berger, Clara Follin, Noma Johnson. They were accompanied on the piano by Miss Vera Donnell.

There were also four sketches entitled: "Hang the Piper," "How a Woman Keeps a Secret," "Signing Off," "Renting Jimmie."

Other numbers: Song and minuet, Ida Roberts and Mary Muffet, gowned in old-fashioned costumes; piano duet, Noma Johnson and Ruth Weik; solo, Ruth Weik, rhythmic orchestra joining in the chorus. Refreshments were served, and a neat sum was realized.

EXPECT DEMOCRATS TO ADOPT STERNER POLICY

That is the Belief in Cuba About the Incoming Party

REGARDED IMPORTANT

(Following is the second of a series of stories based upon a first-hand survey of present conditions in Cuba. To escape possible censorship, the articles were written and sent from Miami.)

By George R. Holmes
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright, 1933, by I. N. S.)

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 22.—(INS)—To Cuba and to Cubans, the inauguration of Franklin D. Roosevelt is regarded as an event as important to them as to the United States.

Rightly or wrongly, the expectation is universal in Havana that the new Democratic administration is going to adopt a sterner Cuban policy than has prevailed during the two Republican administrations—a policy that will endeavor to end the bitter warfare that exists between the forces of President Machado and the opposition and which has cost many Cuban lives in recent months.

Havana itself is an armed camp, with Machado's efficient army of some 12,000 in complete control. All constitutional guarantees have been suspended, schools and universities closed, the press censored, and martial law is effective throughout the island.

Both sides already have importuned the President-elect. Representations have been made to him by Machado interests to continue the current policy of "non-interference" with Cuba's domestic problems, under the famous Root interpretation of the Platt amendment. This amendment gives the United States the right to intervene in Cuban affairs to insure a government to protect "life, property and individual liberty."

The bitter enemies of President Machado, who include some of Cuba's best families, have bombarded Mr. Roosevelt with demands that the United States assume its responsibilities under the amendment and bring pressure to bear upon Machado to restore the liberties that have largely disappeared under his iron-handed rule of the past seven years.

It poses a pretty question for the new administration at the outset of its career.

Today, Machado is completely in the saddle in Cuba through his control of the army, the congress, and the supreme court. When he imposed the present rigorous press censorship, one Spanish-language newspaper (El Mundo) took the case to the supreme court and much to the surprise of its editors, won it. It was a hollow victory, however, for the government simply (Continued on Page 3)

Silver Wedding Marked By Mr. and Mrs. H. Encke

CROYDON, Feb. 22.—Mr. and Mrs. Herman Encke celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary on Sunday evening. The couple was married in Hazleton, and for the past 13 years resided here.

Twenty-one guests attended, including: Mr. and Mrs. H. Yates and family, Mr. and Mrs. C. Weber, Bristol; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Beisel, Croydon; Mr. and Mrs. R. Moody, Andalusia; and friends from Philadelphia.

Entertainment included radio music, singing, selections by Louis Beisel on the guitar. Refreshments were enjoyed. The fete ended with a number of gifts of silverware, etc.

CONVICT ZAKUTYNSKY, DRUNKEN DRIVING CASE

Motion Made for New Trial; Defendant Released in $1,000 Bail

TESTIMONY BY OFFICER

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 22.—Peter Zakutynsky, of Bristol, who on December 14th last, was arrested by Bristol police on a charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, was yesterday convicted in court here, when he went on trial before Judge Hiram Keller.

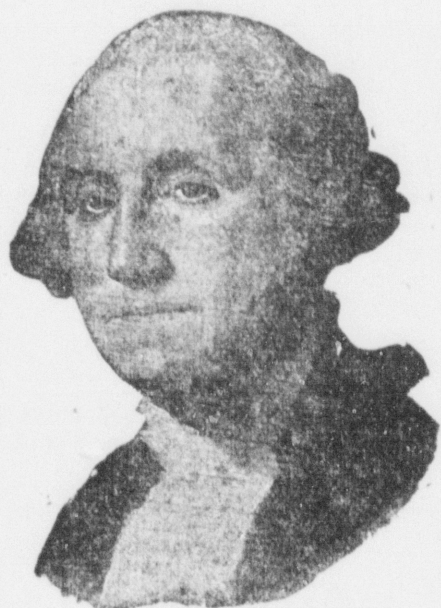

Defense counsel immediately made a motion for a new trial, and Zakutynsky was released under $1,000 bail.

It was testified by Officer Albert Stowe, of Bristol, that in his opinion Zakutynsky was under the influence of liquor, and unfit to operate an automobile. This witness stated he did not see Zakutynsky drive the machine, but found him walking toward Bristol, and when he saw the police car the defendant started running, Stowe said.

"Zakutynsky asked me to give him a break," Officer Stowe testified. "I found the defendant out and bleeding and his automobile had been ditched." Leo Devine, Bristol painter, saw the defendant on Beaver Dam Road, and testified that he saw Zakutynsky driving his car in a zig-zag manner and run into a ditch.

Dr. J. Fred Wagner, of Bristol, described the defendant's condition when he examined him as suffering quite definitely under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

H. DURHAM DIES

Word has been received here of the death of Horace Durham, brother of Marvel Durham, Pond street.

"RUN NOT, NEITHER GO TOO SLOWLY"

HARRISBURG, Feb. 22.—"Run not in the streets, neither go too slowly."

Washington took the above quotation from a French book published in 1595, and applied it to himself. If it was a good rule in his day, the Governor's Committee on Street and Highway Safety believes it is even more worth while today.

With Washington's birthday at hand, the committee passes it on for the thoughtful consideration of Pennsylvania pedestrians.

QUAKERTOWN BARN BURNS

Quakertown, Feb. 22.—Loss was estimated at $3,000 today in the fire that destroyed a barn on the farm of Frank Stranges, of Ridge Road, four miles from here last night. Fifty chickens and a cow perished. Origin of the fire was undetermined. Bucks County Fire Marshal William L. Stackhouse said it was the 44th farm to be destroyed by fire in Bucks County since last June.

FIRE FOLLOWS BOMBING

Bethlehem, Feb. 22.—Fire which followed the explosion of two bombs believed set by an anarchist, had wrecked the Hellertown Shoe Manufacturing Company plant. The loss was estimated at $30,000. The plant, a frame structure, was situated near the Reading railroad at Hellertown four miles south of here. It was operated by William H. Clauser, of Allentown, and had a force of thirty employees. James Deilly, the night watchman told police that two explosions, almost simultaneous, wrecked the front and rear of the building shortly after nine o'clock last night. Firemen from this city and Hellertown were unable to check the flames.

SEE ANOTHER "TRUCK WAR"

Philadelphia, Feb. 22.—The arrest of three Pennsylvania truck drivers yesterday for operating in New Jersey without that state's license tags was visioned today as the opening of another Pennsylvania-New Jersey interstate truck war. Pennsylvania had recently abandoned its reciprocity privileges to trucks in common carrier service from other states and has been turning unlicensed foreign vehicles back at the border. Maryland took similar action a week ago against Pennsylvania trucks.

BOMB CONTAINED ONE SHELL

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—The bomb mailed to President-elect Roosevelt at Washington and discovered by an alert postal workman, contained but one shot gun shell, wired with a detonator, William Satterfield, chief postal inspector revealed today, as Federal investigators spread their net working about Watertown, New York, the origin of the infernal machine. First reports were that several shot gun shells had been connected with a corroded wire to a detonator. Although the death machine was revealed as but a single shot gun shell, fire arm experts observed this charge might have proven fatal and cited instances. As soon as the bomb was discovered, postal inspectors, department of justice operators and secret service men were called into action from Washington and New York City and detailed to Watertown, New York. The discovery was made when a postal employee noted the brown wrappings on a small package loose from its cord bindings and investigated.

Postal authorities in describing the address which brought the package to Washington identified the writing as that of a foreigner. They said it indicated little knowledge of American characters, or a well marked hand.

FIRE AT SUMMER CAMP DOES DAMAGE OF $25,000

Workman Discovers Blaze in Warrington Township; Sweeps 3 Buildings

WAS FORMERLY HOTEL

When fire swept through three buildings of a summer camp formerly owned by John Rensen in Warrington Township, two miles northwest of Ivyland, yesterday, total damage of $25,000 was done.

Three workmen were in the place at the time, one of the trio, Harry Goldsmith, discovering the blaze which had evidently started in the dining-hall. Before the blaze was brought under control three buildings fell prey to the flames. One was the kitchen, the second the dining-hall, and in the third were 19 rooms all furnished. Cause of the blaze has not been determined.

The property was formerly a large hotel, but a few years ago had been turned into a summer camp. Last summer the property was taken over by the Bucks County Trust Company, and is now leased to Benjamin Gorski.

The three buildings were all frame, and the fire made swift headway through them before the fire companies from Warrington Township, Hordsham, Harboro and Willow Grove arrived. The main structure was also damaged to some extent.

At the time of the blaze Gorski who leases the place was in Philadelphia. The camp is located along the Nesquehoning Creek at State Road.

An investigation is being conducted by Bucks County Fire Marshal William L. Stackhouse, Hulmeville.

Auxiliary Has Women Of Burlington Post, Guests

The women of Delker-Watkins Post, 2385, Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary, held their regular meeting Monday evening, and entertained 22 members of Scully-Bozarth Post, 1817, Auxiliary, Burlington, N. J.

At the conclusion of the meeting, coffee and cake was partaken of. Commander David Barrowclough was present to welcome the women on behalf of the men of the post.

Mrs. Ralph Montayne, Bethayres, was present, and assisted President Mary Barrowclough in the reception and entertainment of the visitors.

Delker-Watkins Post Auxiliary will meet again on March 7th, and members are urged to turn out. Strenuous efforts are being made by President Barrowclough and co-workers to keep building up the auxiliary in spite of the difficulties of the times.

TO PROBE CAUSE OF MILK PRICE SPREAD

Senator Buckman and Representative Haines Introduce Bill Concurrently

TO NAME A COMMITTEE

HARRISBURG, Feb. 22.—Senator Clarence J. Buckman and Representative W. Albertson Haines, Bucks County, have taken steps in an endeavor to learn why there is such a big spread in the price which producers receive for milk and the price at which it is sold to the consumers.

The following bill was introduced concurrently by Senator Buckman and Representative Haines, and it was adopted by both the Senate and House:

Whereas, Milk is an essential human food and should be available in ample quantity and at reasonable prices to our people, and

Whereas, There appears to be an unreasonable spread between the price paid by milk distributors to producers and the retail price paid by consumers, and

Whereas, It is essential that producers of milk receive a just share of the retail price of milk which they produce, and

Whereas, The regulations adopted by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and neighboring states with respect to the production of milk are burdensome and expensive particularly to the small producer, therefore be it

Resolved (If the Senate concur), That the President Pro Tempore of the Senate shall appoint three Senators and the Speaker of the House of Representatives shall appoint three Members of the House who together shall constitute legislative committee and whose duty it shall be to study and investigate (a) the production, preparation, distribution and marketing of milk, (b) the wholesale and retail prices of milk, (c) the milk laws and regulations of this and neighboring states, and (d) whether any discriminations are practiced against milk produced in Pennsylvania and to take the testimony of such witnesses as may be deemed necessary to ascertain the full facts which will enable the committee to draft and report proper legislation designed to aid the dairy farmer in securing a reasonable price for milk produced;

Resolved, That said committee shall have power to issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman requiring and commanding any person to appear before it and answer such questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee and to produce such books, papers, records and documents as the committee may deem necessary. Such subpoenas may be served upon any person and shall have the same force and effect as subpoenas issued out of the courts of this Commonwealth. Each member of the committee shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before it. Any person who shall willfully neglect or refuse to appear and testify for said committee or to produce any books, papers, records and documents shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of this Commonwealth in such cases.

The deceased was a native of Italy, but had been a resident of Bristol for the past 40 years. She is survived by her husband, Joseph, and sons Louis, R. Joseph, Dominick, and Leonard, of Bristol; Frank, of Detroit; William, of Philadelphia; and daughters Mrs. Mary Bomentti, Mrs. Amelia Simeone, and Mrs. Anna Donato, all of Philadelphia.

Miss Dorothy Whitmore, Philadelphia, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Harry White, 272 Harrison street.

ALLEGED WORKERS OF STILL FAIL TO APPEAR FOR TRIAL

Bench Warrants Issued For Four and Bail is Forfeited

WILL BE ARRESTED

Trial of Dr. Bertha Guild is Halted for Time Being

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 22.—When four alleged operators of a still seized on the picturesque country estate of Dr. Bertha Guild, Haycock township physician, last January, failed to appear in criminal court for trial yesterday, President Judge Hiram H. Keller declared their fugitives from justice and directed that bench warrants be issued for their apprehension and that their bail be forfeited.

The bail bonds were furnished by the Greater City Surety and Indemnity Company, Philadelphia.

This action was taken shortly before noon after Mike Berman, Aaron Thomas, William Berg and Offie Davis, of Philadelphia, the missing fugitives, had been called twice by District Attorney Arthur M. Eastburn. The Court advised the Clerk of Quarter Sessions and Sheriff Horace E. Gwinner to lose no time in executing the proper papers that will necessitate the bonding company forfeiting the bail.

Forfeiture of the bail preceded a motion made by Attorney Mark Thatcher, of Perkasie, to have the case of Dr. Bertha Guild continued until the next term of criminal court because he desired to call the four defendants, now missing, as witnesses in the Guild case.

"These men I assure you, will testify that so far as they knew, Dr. Guild had nothing to do with what the police found was going on in a barn on the Guild farm," Attorney Thatcher told the Court.

District Attorney Eastburn consented to have the case continued so that the two cases can be tried together at the next term if the missing men are apprehended.

Dr. Guild renewed bail in the sum of $500 furnished by John H. Landis, of Richland township.

State Police of the Doylestown substation, County Detective Antonio Russo and Constable A. R. Atkinson, of Doylestown, on the afternoon of January 4, invaded the quietude of Haycock township's foothills and seized Bucks county's largest moonshine plant, that had a capacity of close to 2,000 gallons of cane sugar alcohol every twenty-four hours. The monthly output of the plant, police estimated at $20,000 monthly, and it is believed the place had been in operation for three months. A 500-gallon still, in addition to 10,000 gallons of sugar mash were found in the barn where the plant was located.

Dotting the massive estate are a number of buildings, some of Colonial architecture. In one building the officers found a well-equipped dormitory where two of the defendants, now missing, slept peacefully awaiting the hour of the "night shift" to go on duty. In the barn, the officers found the other two defendants hiding.

Dr. Guild, who walked from her dwelling house, the main building on the farm, expressed surprise when the officers arrived, stating that she had no knowledge that a moonshine plant was being operated in her barn. She told police that she rented it to a Philadelphia party for a plumbing shop. The four defendants, took their meals at the Guild home.

Jerry Kelly Has Party On His First Birthday

Jerry Kelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Kelly, Spruce street, was one year old, and his parents gave him a birthday party in honor of the event yesterday. The children attending the party had a good time playing games, followed by refreshments. The table decorations were green and white, and favors were baskets filled with candies. Jerry had a birthday cake decorated with one candle.

Those present: Mary and Rose Kelly, Douglass and Winifred Kelly, Hannah Joseph and James McDevitt, Mildred Dugan, Isabel Rodgers. Older folks present: Miss Katharine Griffin, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. John Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Kelly, Mrs. James McDevitt.

WASHINGTON

It is the human qualities—mental, moral and spiritual—underlying great acts that lend to them their chief appeal. The deeds of immemorial deeds have all been men of many and varied qualities. To understand their acts and their lives, properly requires a broad comprehension of their combined characteristics. But it is always found that every great figure in history was gifted with some one quality that stood out pre-eminently above all the others.

Lincoln's supreme trait was his humanity. Washington's, it is generally agreed was his sense of duty. This quality, like the leitmotif in a Beethoven symphony, was visible in every important phase of his career. It gave strength and logic to all his other qualities. It sustained him during the most trying experiences of the War of Independence. It steadied his hand in the formation of our present system of government. It was a motive power behind many of his acts as president that strengthened the foundations of the government built on the new constitution. And, too, it gave Washington's character a certain sternness in dealing with men and problems that may easily have seemed unjustifiable in a less monumental figure. Frequently his expression of his sense of duty was in keeping with Wordsworth's description of that quality in the line, "stern daughter of the voice of God."

While he has long since found his place in history as one of the world's greatest patriots and statesmen, the true Washington still suffers a certain obscurity from a host of apocryphal legends. Mason Weems, probably his most popular biographer, seems to be chiefly responsible. The cherry tree story is pretty. It points to Washington's instinctive regard for truth. But the essential dignity of his truthfulness and honesty is shown with entire sufficiency in his real deeds. Myths often tend to throw their heroes out of perspective. Legends may be glamorous and have boundless sentimental appeal, but men can be interpreted correctly only in terms of reality.

Doubtless most Americans think of Washington chiefly as the commander of the military forces of the original states. But generals in the field of action are of necessity destroyers. Washington deserves to be remembered for the great constructive alibis he exhibited after the close of the War of Independence.

Paradoxically, when more jag saws are idle employment will be increasing.

Plastic surgeons in Vienna are making millions from tourists who have seen their own passport photos.

The world's population will double in 60 years, it is estimated, which is bad news because it will mean twice as much human nature.

If everyone ate a peck of wheat for breakfast every morning, that would be 30,000,000 bushels a day or a total equal to the entire wheat surplus in one month. Wiping out the wheat surplus will boost the price of that staple and start us back toward prosperity. Do we have the gustatory stamina?

HULMEVILLE

the Black Swan

It is the year 1690. The "Centaur" sailing from the West Indies for England is captured by the cut-throat Tom Leach, who, on board his vessel, "The Black Swan," has long terrorized ships on the Spanish Main. Passengers aboard the "Centaur" are Priscilla Harradine, daughter of the late Sir John Harradine, Captain-General of the Leeward Isles; Major Sands, Sir John's middle-aged assistant, who hopes to marry Priscilla; and Monsieur Charles de Bernis, gallant, young Frenchman. De Bernis is a lieutenant of the notorious buccaneer, Henry Morgan, who reformed to enter the service of his King and rid the seas of pirates. Morgan has offered a reward for the capture of Leach. After seizing the "Centaur," Leach murders the captain and crew. The passengers are spared a like fate through De Bernis' wit. He introduces Priscilla as his wife and the Major as his brother-in-law. He then tells the pirate chief a convincing story about his leaving Morgan to search for Leach and enlist his aid in capturing a Spanish plate fleet worth a king's ransom. It is agreed that De Bernis is to take command of the "Centaur" and lead Leach in "The Black Swan" to the treasure. Major Sands, who dislikes De Bernis because of Priscilla's interest in the Frenchman, believes the Frenchman to be in league with Leach. De Bernis assures Priscilla and the skeptical Major that they are in no immediate danger.

SYNOPSIS

It is the year 1690. The "Centaur" sailing from the West Indies for England is captured by the cut-throat Tom Leach, who, on board his vessel, "The Black Swan," has long terrorized ships on the Spanish Main. Passengers aboard the "Centaur" are Priscilla Harradine, daughter of the late Sir John Harradine, Captain-General of the Leeward Isles; Major Sands, Sir John's middle-aged assistant, who hopes to marry Priscilla; and Monsieur Charles de Bernis, gallant, young Frenchman. De Bernis is a lieutenant of the notorious buccaneer, Henry Morgan, who reformed to enter the service of his King and rid the seas of pirates. Morgan has offered a reward for the capture of Leach. After seizing the "Centaur," Leach murders the captain and crew. The passengers are spared a like fate through De Bernis' wit. He introduces Priscilla as his wife and the Major as his brother-in-law. He then tells the pirate chief a convincing story about his leaving Morgan to search for Leach and enlist his aid in capturing a Spanish plate fleet worth a king's ransom. It is agreed that De Bernis is to take command of the "Centaur" and lead Leach in "The Black Swan" to the treasure. Major Sands, who dislikes De Bernis because of Priscilla's interest in the Frenchman, believes the Frenchman to be in league with Leach. De Bernis assures Priscilla and the skeptical Major that they are in no immediate danger.

CHAPTER NINETEEN

He turned aside, to summon Pierre and give him orders to lay dinner for five persons. He explained this, addressing himself to Miss Priscilla. "My lieutenant and my sailing-master will take their meals with us. I would have spared you this but that it would scarcely be prudent. Beyond that, however, you need fear no invasion of your privacy, and, except during meals, this cabin will be exclusively your own."

Her clear blue eyes considered him steadily and searchingly, from out of her pallid face. But his aloof and rather chilling impassivity baffled scrutiny. She inclined her head. "We are in your power, sir. It only remains for us to thank you for any consideration you may show us."

A little frown puckered his dark brow. "In my power? Oh, that! Say, rather, under my protection."

"Is there a difference?"

"When we are all in the power of circumstances, Priscilla."

She imagined the beginnings of a disclosure in this, and would have pursued it, but the Major must at that moment come blundering in, indignantly.

"You make very free with Miss Harradine's name, sir."

"Of necessity. Like the rest, is she not my wife? And are you not my brother-in-law, my dear Bartholomew?"

The Major quivered, and glared at him. Perceiving the one and the other, Monsieur de Bernis stiffened as if he had been struck. He spoke now with an incisive edge to his tone. "You embarrass me terribly. Another in my place might end it quickly. Pray remember that, Bartholomew. And be good enough, both of you, to address me as Charles, unless you want to endanger your necks with my own. The intimacy may be distasteful to you, Bartholomew. But less distasteful, I hope, than to find yourself swinging from a yardarm. That is not at all amusing."

On that he went out again, leaving the Major in a fever of indignation.

"And you prove that you're a fool," was her interruption.

"By heaven! That cut-throat had the audacity to threaten me, I think." From that reckless beginning he would have continued recklessly to pour out his wrath had Priscilla not collected wit and strength to check him, her eyes on the lean, soft-footed half-caste, who was busy with the table.

"After all, Bart," she reminded him, "Monsieur de Bernis did not invite Captain Leach to come aboard the Centaur."

"But he welcomed him! He associates himself with this bloodthirsty scoundrel! He has confessed that it was his intention to join that murderer, and that the ruffian's assault on us was timely. What better is he?"

"I wonder," said Miss Priscilla. Amazement brimmed his pale eyes. "You wonder? After what you've just heard? When you know him to be in command here in the place of that poor murdered Bransome?"

"Oh, but that proves nothing—as against all the rest."

"Nothing? It proves that he's a damned pirate, a cut-throat villain!"

She was on her feet to check him; for Pierre, who had momentarily passed into the pantry, was coming forth again. "And you prove that you're a fool," was her interruption. "And unless you can succeed in concealing it, you'll come by a fool's end before long, and you may drag others with you."

He could only gasp and stare, shocked, scandalized beyond all expression that a child, so meek and gentle as he had always supposed Priscilla, should bring herself to address him—a man of his parts, an officer of his consequence—in such outrageous terms. It passed all understanding. He could but suppose that the events of that terrible morning must have unbalanced her reason. When he had recovered breath, he began remonstrances, which she cut short with the same incredible new-found manner. In a moment of Pierre's absence, she stepped close up to him, caught his arm in a tight grip, and muttered swiftly: "Will you rant so before that man of his? Have you no sense or discretion?"

If she thus made him aware that she was justified of her apprehensions, nothing in his view could justify the terms she chose in which to convey her warning to him. He was profoundly annoyed, his sense of fitness outraged. He said so, pompously. And having said so, he lapsed again into a sullen silence in which she judged it best to leave him, since in that mood at least he could do no damage.

Thus until Monsieur de Bernis returned, accompanied now by the tall Irishman Wogan, and an extremely corpulent but nevertheless powerful-looking man, of middle height with enormous shoulders, an enormous dewlap, and features that were by contrast ridiculously small. He presented him as Halliwell, the sailing-master.

They got to table, and Pierre, ever swift and silent in his movements, a very shadow of a man, came forth to wait upon them.

De Bernis took the chair in which the ill-starred Bransome had sat, so care-free and good-humored, as lately as last night. He placed Miss Priscilla and the Major on his right, with their backs to the light. Wogan on his immediate left, and the elephantine sailing-master beyond him.

It was a gloomy meal. At first the pirates were disposed to be hilarious. But something compelling in de Bernis' cold manner and the silent aloofness of the supposed Madame de Bernis and her supposed brother gradually damped their humor. Wogan's dark, flat-featured face became mask-like in sullen resentment. The sailing-master, however, a man of voracious appetite, considering nothing at table of an importance to compare with the victuals, discovered here all the entertainment he could desire in the fresh meat and vegetables in which the Centaur was well-found. Noisy and repulsive in his feeding, he paid little heed to anything else.

The Major curbed himself with difficulty from reproving the fellow's abominable table-manners. As for Miss Priscilla, overcome by the horrors of the day upon which these table companions placed a culminating horror, secretly racked by fears, and entirely miserable, yet bravely dissembling it, she made a pretence of eating that could have deceived no one who had been concerned to observe it.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal. . . . Yesterday morning in Berlin, Herr Emil Jannings received a cablegram which must have given him an uncommon pleasure. It was an urgent summons to return to Hollywood which once hailed him the greatest of them all, but which soon forgot him in the cacophony of the early talkies.

Now, Charles R. Rogers wants the German star to come back to play the lead in "Hock Shop," a story about a foreign pawn-broker who becomes a power in a big Fifth Avenue jewelry store. In this part, Herr Jannings' accent, or what remains of it after his recent studies in English, will not be out of place.

As the portly actor also has an offer to do a New York play, Rogers hopes he can be persuaded to make the journey to this country.

"Hock Shop" will be the producer's eighth and last picture under his present agreement with Paramount. Like all the other Rogers pictures but "70,000 Witnesses," it is a screen original, the authors being two fan magazine writers, Charles Belden and William Ullman, Jr. Elliott Nugent will direct.

If Jannings does the picture, it will be his first English talkie. In December, 1926, he arrived here to work for Paramount and left in the early summer of 1929. His last silent film was "Sins of the Fathers," in which Ruth Chatterton also appeared.

Since the Halperin brothers have been making the picture, "Super-natural," they've been swamped by communications from self-styled mediums. Latest was a scrawled manuscript of a scenario, which the writer insisted had been written under spirit control.

Edward Halperin had the manuscript returned with this notation: "Suggest you also get this produced and distributed under control; it will make it easier for everyone concerned."

ILLUMINATING also that, within the last three days, R-K-O has received 2,000 letters from London suggesting names for Tom Keene's new horse. This is the biggest reply from any one district, showing what the Brits think of westerns. Oddly enough, dozens of the Londoners picked the same name, "Whiskey." Tom's new horse is black and white.

It will be a vacation, soon, for Jean Malin, popular M. C. at the Club New Yorker. Ted Healy and all his stogees will open at this late spot on March second.

WASHINGTON

When Washington was but a boy he rode his mother's colt, and ran with it thru all the fields until he made it bolt. Like lightning, swift, o'er mead and farm. The colt fell down and died.
Now George too only just a boy, Was very brave and true; His mother's mounted anger came, His father raged anew, But George said, "Father, I'm to blame," You see, he never lied.
And then when he became a man, A strong, brave hero, bold, He tried, and lead, and said "I can," Tho it was often cold And hunger stalked among his men; Their wants were not supplied.

"Brave Washington, may we like you, When trials come our way, In everything our best may do, So that our fellow-men may say When all complete, our work is thru, 'We'd won too, if we'd tried.'" refused to recognize or accept the decree of the court. Whereupon the chief justice resigned, and another was appointed more in sympathy with the government's ideas and program. The present American Ambassador,

Harry F. Guggenheim, has on numerous occasions made representations to the Machado government. On one occasion, Ambassador Guggenheim with Secretary of State Orestes Ferrara in behalf of a young student of good family who had been arrested for oppositionist activities, the Ambassador was assured that the student would come to no harm.

That same night, the student died from gunshot wounds in a Havana hospital. He was a victim of that old Spanish custom of "ley de fuego" (law of flight) which the Machado government has invoked with deadly effect. Its practical effect is to give military authorities power to hold political or civil incommunicado for trial before courts martial instead of civil courts, and then conveniently to shoot them on the ground they tried to escape.

ARREST TWO
Denver, Col., Feb. 22.—Charles Akers, 36 year old bootlegger and a dark-haired woman, giving the name of Marion Rodgers, 25, were jailed by Denver police early today as they pushed their investigation into the kidnapping of Charles Boettcher, 2nd, along the lines indicated by the arrest of Charles Stevens, 40. Police brought the couple to headquarters from Union City after they had made a telephone call to Stevens' wife in Colorado Springs urging her to "shift." They were questioned by Chief of Police A. T. Clark, Manager of Safety Carol Milken and Department of Justice Agent, A. L. Zimmer. Stevens, a St. Louis gambler and operator of de luxe gambling houses in the vicinity of Colorado Springs, was arrested late last night.

DAVE'S DELICATESSEN

By MILT GROSS

YES—I HEARD YOU! THE CAPTAIN LIKES PLENTY OF SALT IN HIS SOUP!
OK. WELL, SEE THAT HE GETS IT!

JUST TO KEEP PEACE IN THE FAMILY I'D BETTER SEE THAT THE CAPTAIN'S SOUP GETS PLENTY OF SALT

H'M---THAT DOPE, DAVE, MIGHT FORGET—I BETTER SEE TO THE SALT, MYSELF!

WELL, JUST FOR GOOD MEASURE WE'LL DROP A BIT MORE SALT INTO THE CAPTAIN'S SOUP!

HEY, CAPTAIN!

HIGH SCHOOL QUINTET BEATS UPPER MORELAND

By Oscar Corn
(H. S. Press Representative)

Coming out of a slump which cost them two games, the Bristol High quintet, playing in top form, handed the Purple and Yellow Upper Moreland five a 39 to 20 trimming. The Bristol J. V.'s were defeated 24 to 16 by the Upper Moreland Seconds. The games were played last night on the local court.

The varsity game started with Cahall snaring a pass and looping the cords for the first twin-pointer of the game. Bristol constantly kept this lead and steadily increased it. The excellent passing of the Cardinal and Gray five baffled the visitors and made the game interesting.

The Bristol Jay Vees went "great guns" in the first half. But when the third period started the visitors had a scoring spree and easily piled up a lead.

Cahall and Cole scored most for Bristol, while Helms was the Upper Moreland high scorer. Gibson and Girrotti were high scorers in the Jay Vees game for Bristol, while Randall took the scoring laurels for the Upper Moreland Junior Varsity.

ST. ANN'S A. A. TO PLAY NORTHEAST TONIGHT

The St. Ann's A. A. will play their second game of the Greater Northeast Philadelphia Tournament tonight, meeting the Northwood All-Stars. The St. Ann's game will be the second of the four frays carded for the evening.

If the Bristol team wins this fray they will enter the semi-finals and have a possible chance of playing the finals. Tickets are being sold by members of the St. Ann's organization and a large delegation from Bristol is expected to see the local boys in action.

Dorsey, Dugan, Rodgers, Pico, Tulio, Spadaccino and Tentilucci will probably see the most action during the game.

Down the Bowling Alleys

Last night on the Bristol alleys the Elks took all four points from the Odd Fellows.

Jackson, of the Elks, was high man with a total of 557 and Kenyon had the only 200 game.

PLAN SEVERE TEST FOR RED-CAPED WARRIOR

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 22.—The severest test the "Red Devil" has been called upon to face will take place at the Arena Friday night at Promoter Dick Curley's wrestling party, when the scarlet caped warrior will collide in a finish struggle against the masterful Harin Plestina.

The "Red Devil" accomplished a feat last week in downing Pat McClary, ex-Masked Marvel, equalled only by Strangler Lewis. Prior to his defeat by the "Devil" and Lewis, McClary has amassed a startling streak of victories.

The majority of the fans were of the opinion that McClary would pin the Canadian grappler, and were amazed when the smaller man punished the big Irishman into helplessness. It was one of the upsets of the season. In this engagement the Canuck displayed a remarkable assortment of holds and it was his greater knowledge of the intricacies of the game that enabled him to pin McClary.

In Plestina he meets a wizard of the sport. Plestina, no longer young, has campaigned successfully in every part of the world and is generally feared by the leading contenders. Known in the dark days of grappling as the "trust buster," Harin had great difficulty in inveigling the prima-donnas of the sport on the mat.

He has grappled with Earl McCready, Alex Aberg, George Manich, George Hagen, Mike Romano, Dick Stahl, and has yet to taste defeat.

The other finish affair brings back Henry Piers, the popular Hollander, coming to grips against Richard "Bull" Martin, Trenton's gift to heavy-weight wrestling. Henry was going great guns until running afoul of the Masked Marvel. It was this win that gave the Marvel the Lewis match.

A newcomer, Charley Strack, inventor of the Pier Six style of wrestling, makes his initial bow to Trenton fandom in the feature 30-minute event. He faces John Freeberg, of Sweden.

Paul Boesch, sensational German-Jewish youth, who has registered so favorably with the fans, again returns to the wars in a time limit bout against Cy Williams, former Giant football star.

George Manich, ever popular Jersey-lite, opens the show against Joe Shimkus, burly Lithuanian.

The first bout starts at 8.30.

NEW ARRIVAL

Mr. and Mrs. James Rodgers, Pine street, are rejoicing over the birth of a baby girl born Sunday at their home.

THIRD Ward's clever basketball quintet were away up in the air the other night when they met the Hawks in that important league contest. Harry Kendig's men played their greatest game of the season, scoring from all angles, never letting the Third Warders get set at any time.

Henry Morgan, clever Hille forward, missed any number of foul shots and seemed unable to do anything right. Larry David was another player who was blanked during the evening and the reliable Jimmy Lake had an off night.

"Nev" McGinley and "Ed" Dugan were the only two Third Ward players who were able to do anything against the Hawks, scoring 20 of their team's 31 points between them.

While the Hawks led by kindig played a great game particularly Massilia, Ennis and Kervick who did most of the scoring for the victors.

What a game the basketball enthusiasts of Bristol will witness tomorrow evening in the Italian Mutual Aid Hall, when the Third Ward meets Paterson Parchment Co. team in the deciding game of the second half! This should be a great contest between two great teams.

DO YOU KNOW THAT...

Howard Potter of Hulmeville is the champion pool player around South Langhorne and Hulmeville. Opponents are so few and far between for the champ that he has had to invade the Frankford section of Philadelphia to get any competition.

Support Those Merchants Of The HOME TOWN LEAGUE

Judge for yourself--after reading this message --whether or not you belong to the HOME TOWN LEAGUE. The fact remains that the HOME TOWN LEAGUE belongs to you!

Why is this true? Because, while the HOME TOWN LEAGUE works for the success of you and everyone else in this community, its success is dependent on you.

A very logical idea lies behind the HOME TOWN LEAGUE. It is the idea of civic-cooperation. It is the idea of safeguarding our homes and businesses and jobs by buying from those who buy from us, and who help us directly or indirectly.

This idea is sponsored here in Bristol by the following group of progressive merchants. You will recognize each one of them.

They have adopted the emblem shown here, and have posted it prominently in the windows of their stores.

This emblem says to you:--
"Patronize this store." Its owner is helping you and your home town by favoring the products of reliable manufacturers who, directly or indirectly, spend money in this community to produce or sell the products they make.

Remember the Names on this List--Look for the Emblem When you Shop
